

Cripplestyle Bench Poems

May 2020

The original inscription written on the seat:

*A dragon's curse goes to the one
That steals this elf made bench
Just one exception to this spell
The thief's a gorgeous wench*

Pete

*Igloo Pete fell asleep while fishing for some meat,
He got so cold his tootsies froze and now he has no feet,
His mates have made a Gizmo Jig to help him get around,
We heard he'd caught a whale last week and now nowhere to be found!*

VLAD

*Vlad has got a taste for drinking blood,
The warmer the better is what he likes,
He chases down his victims in the dead of night,
And strikes a quick hard blow to AVOID the cry of YIKES!*

A Lesson Learnt

*All Poets that I know, in fact is NONE,
They carry a pad and pencil, but I think it should be a GUN!
What do you do? Some have said to me, and just the word POET dun arf make them RUN!*

A New Image

*The image of us slugs need a lot of work,
We need a SUPERHERO like TV's Captain Kirk,
Metamorphosis that's the answer, the butterflies could help us feel less like mugs,
With wings or 'oooh' a jet pack we'd all be cool like Bees and Bugs.*

Robot Dogs

*I do like the idea,
With no shedding of hair
And picking up of poo!
Rubber teeth of course
With no loud barking
Just a low pitched gentle
Woo hoo hoo*

Michael

*Michael the Abominable Snowman has got no mate,
In his icy cave he ponders his lonely fate,
He writes his "love wishing" letters to Heart Club columns,
And sits alone all day to plan a hopeful date.*

MISSION IMPOSSIBLE

*We stand a better chance of travelling at a Light Speed Lick
Than to train a CAT to 'go fetch' a Woody Stick!*

A Wish List

*I wish I had listened more at School and Taken up the ARTS
I wish I had not waisted¹ my time & CASH in PUBS but did love playing Darts
I wish I had Learnt to play Guitar & a forein² Language
I feel this deeply & it Really Smarts
I wish I had a face lift to impress All ladies + Coupled with regrets above there might have been some
BROKEN HEARTS!*

Hard to Stop

*Packing in the weed had frayed my nerves
But I'll endure & giving up the fags was quite a chore!
Boozing too much was a real bore!
NOT squeezing the tea bag, please tell the CURE!*

Clive

Clive the frog has lost his hop

His legs won't work there still and flop!

Clive's SAD beyond belief, no more forward motion he's stuck in STOP!

Please send NO MORE Wheels,

Just CASH, GIN and POP!

WINTER ON THE FARM³

The wind blows hard across the cold farm yard

The geese have legged it to their nests & leave the Dogs Stand Guard.

The chickens are all huddled up & Refuse to lay their eggs

ALL inmates on the farm have PLEADED for some NEW shelter and some nice warm

Thermal Kecks!

The poems that were on the gates on Cranborne Road.

The Sheep Dog

The sheepdog is a cleaver sole to Round & Herd is their Natural Goal.

The Shepherd commands the words 'come by,' 'lay down' and 'sit.'

When things go Rhy frustrations lead to – 'You Pillock' and 'you Bonkers' 'sit.'

Do they take the insults to their hearts. I think not.

A simple Pat on Head at end of Day means All's forgiven & Now's forgot.

The New Doctor

The Ailment I've had for years but never liked to shout.

A New doctors at the practice so I thought I'd try him out.

I tell him of my Allergies to foods of many kinds.

How Wheat germ makes me handsome & stimulates my mind.

How potatoes make my feet go flat & always make me swoon.

The door latch clicks, I raise my Gaze & find he's left the room!

³ This poem was also on the bench at the start of Sandy Lane.

The poem on the bench near the footpath from the Alderholt / Cranborne road just after the kissing gate where the area is flat.

Its rotten getting OLD.*

Its Rotten getting OLD.*
